

The Truro Historical Society

We're excited about the upcoming 2012 season at the Highland House Museum. We have some marvelous events and exhibits planned. We also have a completely new program for volunteers. Of course, greeting guests at the front desk is important. Everyone loves to see a friendly face when they come to the museum. But if you would like to become more involved with the Truro Historical Society, we're looking for volunteers to help with the set-up of the museum for the 2012 season, installation of exhibits, specialized docent programs, fund raising activities, and database entry. Just a few hours of your time each week would mean so much to the efforts of the Society to make the history of Truro come alive and could be so rewarding for you. Plus, as a volunteer, you will earn a free membership in the Truro Historical Society. We'll begin taking applications soon for the summer season. Watch for our new application form.

HOW CLEVER ARE YOU?
NAME THIS MUSEUM ARTIFACT:

Send your answer to info@trurohistorical.org by March 21st. The winner will be chosen at random from the correct responses, and will have their choice of a Truro Historical Society T-shirt or Susan Brennan and Diana Worthington's book Truro from the Images of America series.

Please include a mailing address, telephone number and shirt size with your answer. The correct answer and winner will be included in the March Truro E-News edition.

February's winner is Richard Lettieri from Weston, Ma. Richard named the artifact correctly as the binnacle from the Ship Wreck Room in the Highland House Museum. He will receive a Truro Historical Society T-Shirt as his prize for winning.

The Highland House Museum is closed for the season and will re-open June 2nd, 2012.

The Cobb Archive is open Tuesday and Thursday from 9:30 to 12:30
