Be an Angel to a local child

The Friends of the Library have assembled an Angel Tree, adorned with paper angels tags with the first name, age, gender, and favorite color of a local child whose family needs a little help this year.

Generous souls remove one or more tags from the tree and purchase appropriate gifts for “their” child.

These unwrapped gifts must be returned to the Library by Dec. 10.

Coffee is served

As a special thank you to our patrons, the Library staff will serve coffee, tea, and light snacks to our patrons every Saturday in December.

December Art Exhibit

The December Art Exhibit in the Anne H. Brock Community Room is the photography of David Wennerberg. David is also Truro’s InformationT. specialist.

Photographer David Wennerberg, has been capturing the light and beauty of our outer Cape since 1986. David primarily shoots landscapes and seascapes with emphasis on the patterns and symmetry found in nature while focusing on light, shadow, and motion to create images unique to the Outer Cape. This show will feature a variety of his recent works and sightings.

Animal Tracking

Wed., Dec. 11, 1:30 p.m.

Cape Cod offers a wealth of evidence of animal activities given its coastal, sandy environment. Junior Rangers will practice drawing animal tracks and then will watch a slide show featuring those animals and/or will go outside and search for tracks. A final portion of the session will be a fun activity testing Junior Rangers' knowledge of tracks. Presented by Ranger Mitch

DIY Rainbow Looms

Fri., Dec. 13, 12:30 pm

Bring your own or make a loom with a piece of wood, nails and a hammer. We supply lots of colorful rubber bands for making all kinds of bracelets.
