Farming in Truro

The first and sixth graders at Truro Central School made a recent trip to Hillside Farm in Truro. They visited the pigs that feast on the school lunch waste collected daily as part of the school cafeteria recycling program.

Drew Locke, a graduate of both TCS and the University of Massachusetts School of Agriculture, has partnered with the school to provide vegetables, pork, and chickens for our Farm to School Lunches.

Mix-It-Up Lunch Day

Truro Central School students in grades K-6 recently celebrated our ninth year of participation in Mix-It-Up Lunch Day, a worldwide event sponsored by Teaching Tolerance. As we continue our school-wide efforts to sustain an environment which promote inclusion and celebrate diversity, children were seated at lunch with students across grade levels with whom they typically would not engage in conversation.
