

Dear Friends,

I am very pleased to report that we had a wonderful year at the newly-renovated Highland House Museum. In 2018, we had more visitors, more members, and more attendees at our events than ever before! Our two special exhibitions, Living Legacy 2018 and Mid-Century: The Outer Cape Comes of Age were very well received, and the opening of The Hopper Room brought many visitors who were discovering the museum for the first time.

The work that was completed on the renovation of the Highland House Museum during the past year vastly improved the look and function of the building; and work on Phase 3, which involves the construction of a climate-controlled storage room, has already begun. This addition will allow us to store our collection in a way that will keep it safe from the elements found on the edge of the windy Truro Highlands!

The Cobb Archive, home of our collections on paper, has been active throughout the year. With more volunteers, we've been able to make great strides in accessing and organizing our existing collection, as well as gratefully accepting new donations.

Please help us keep up our momentum! We rely on your generosity to keep Truro's history alive for everyone to learn and enjoy. Your tax-deductible donation to the Truro Historical Society will bring new research projects, new exhibitions, and new events that will highlight the history of Truro and the Outer Cape. You should have received a letter from us in the mail. If you didn't you can donate on our website by clicking this link, DONATE, or by sending your contribution to THS, PO Box 486, Truro, MA 02666.

If you love Truro, there's no better way to show it than to contribute to the Truro Historical Society to benefit the Highland House Museum and the Cobb Archives!

Thank you for your support,

Susan Howe, President
